

3. This Declaration is submitted in support of Respondents' Application for Stay of the Modified Final Order (hereinafter "the Order") issued by the Federal Trade Commission (hereinafter "FTC") on January 25, 2010, and served upon Respondents on January 29, 2010.

4. As a Chiropractor, I have been responsible for supplying my patients with vitamins and other nutritional supplements. I started using Daniel Chapter One ("DCO") products approximately eight years ago -- beginning slowly with several products and as my patients began experiencing more and more fantastic results, I expanded to using DCO's full line of products. I have used many different brands but have come to the point where 90 percent of our nutritional sales are for DCO products.

5. I recommend DCO products because they work. My patients tell me that they work and my patients aren't stupid -- they know what works. For example, 7-Herb Formula was designed to detoxify and cleanse the liver and the blood, and to encourage the functioning of the immune system. In my experience, it is the single best such product on the market. For some of my patients with serious health problems and limited resources, I would call Jim Feijo and he would provide me a couple of cases of 7-Herb Formula at deep discount so my patients can afford to take it frequently.

6. Most of these customers are patients in our chiropractic center and most DCO product sales are repeat customers. Why? Because the products work -- they're readily absorbable, they're powerful and they're affordable. Our patients depend on us for chiropractic treatments, exercise and rehab advice, and nutritional advice. Daniel Chapter One products never let us down. I know of no patients of mine, or anyone else, who have ever had any adverse result from a DCO product. I have never seen any type of advertising by DCO that could be considered false or deceptive. Jim and Tricia Feijo are fine people who are running a Christian ministry of great value to America, and I have no idea why a branch of the U.S. Government would be attacking DCO for telling the truth about their great products. I am outraged that my taxes are being used by the FTC to harm the health of my patients.

7. I felt so strongly about the FTC effort to impair Daniel Chapter One's ministry and products, that I drove to Washington, D.C. at my own expense to attend and testify at the hearing before the FTC Administrative Law Judge, so I am very familiar with the facts of this case. From that experience, it appears to me that the FTC is using enforcement powers that Congress gave it to do the bidding of the FDA, almost acting as its subsidiary.

8. If my patients were unable to purchase Daniel Chapter One products, I have no doubt that the several hundred persons who obtain their DCO products through our practice would see a decline in their health, and an acceleration of their aging process.

Pursuant to 28 U.S.C. Section 1746, I declare, under penalty of perjury, that the foregoing is true and correct.
